University Senate Seat

I'm excited to run for a CAS Humanities seat on the UO Senate. My passion for shared governance at the University of Oregon stems from a deep commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion. As a cis-gendered gay Latino man, I believe in building a vibrant and welcoming community where everyone has a voice.

My experience as a Career Instructor of Spanish, Undergraduate Advising Coordinator, and member of the Instructional Faculty Committee demonstrates my hands-on involvement in shaping the UO experience. I'm also a strong advocate for international learning – I'm currently leading an effort to secure an NEH grant for COIL initiatives.

I'm a collaborative leader with a knack for tackling challenges. If elected, I'll work to strengthen shared governance, ensuring faculty voices are integral to our decision-making. My goal is to create a UO where faculty feel ownership over the university's future, transforming our institution into a model of respect and collaborative leadership.

Let's work together to build a UO where the grass truly is greener – green with the pride of knowing we've built a university where everyone not only belongs but thrives.
