

Denita Strietelmeier, Lundquist College of Business

I am a project manager in the Office of the Dean at Lundquist College of Business. Our university's commitment to excellence demands principled and balanced decisions about the university's goals, appropriate resources to match those goals, and a vision that stretches into the future. Over my 15 years working in higher education, I have worked through a broad array of challenges related to research, operations, and education/curriculum and strategy. I would be honored to put my experience to work to on the Faculty Advisory Council to drive improvement and sound decision-making for the university. Go Ducks!
