

Drew Nobile

I am Assistant Professor of Music Theory in the School of Music and Dance (up for promotion to Associate Professor as of Fall 2021), a position I have held since 2015. I am completing a three-year term on the Undergraduate Council and would be happy to continue to serve. In the SOMD, I teach the first-year music theory sequence taken by all undergraduate music majors, and I have been involved in many undergraduate-level curricular discussions across the school. As a result, I have a broad sense of the needs of all SOMD undergraduate students and programs, not just those in my area, making me an ideal SOMD representative on this campus-wide committee.