

Eleanor Wakefield, English and Composition

I am a Career faculty member in English and Composition and the secretary for United Academics. I have served on many department, university, and union committees with the goal of increasing communication across units and improving faculty satisfaction and success. Currently I am on the bargaining team for United Academics and I am the faculty representative on an HR committee working on revising our internal policy documents, to name just two. During this remote year, I have found these kinds of commitments especially valuable for keeping me and others connected to the larger work of the University. I look forward to opportunity to learn from more faculty, staff, and students across campus in new capacities through this Senate work.

Thank you.
