

Kent Slocum, Campus Planning & Facilities Management

My roots run deep at the University of Oregon. One of my earliest memories growing up in Eugene was attending a Men's Basketball game at historic MacArthur Court. It should come as no surprise, then, that I decided to attend the University of Oregon as my first and only choice of higher education. During my education at the UO, I worked part-time as an English-language tutor with the on-campus American English Institute in order to graduate debt-free. After graduating from the Lundquist College of Business with the Class of 2018, I immediately put my Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration (and concentrations in Marketing and Entrepreneurship) to work with The Walt Disney Company, where I obtained valuable experience in improving guest satisfaction and exceeding guest expectations with the world leader in theme park entertainment. After spending two years in Southern California, I took the opportunity to return to Eugene in order to accept a position with the department of Campus Planning and Facilities Management at the University of Oregon. As a Custodian, I directly improve the experience of students, faculty, and staff every day at the UO. This has given me a unique, ground-level view of how the University operates and can be improved. As a member of the University Senate, I will be able to bring a fresh perspective to the University of Oregon's governing body and usher in positive change for the entire UO community. I am proud to be an Oregonian, a Eugenic, a Duck, and YOUR choice for the Classified Position on the University of Oregon Senate.
