

Timothy Williams – Candidate Statement

I am an associate professor, with tenure, in the Department of History. My work focuses on the intellectual and cultural history of nineteenth-century America, including literary history and gender studies. Prior to joining the History Department, I was a faculty member in the Clark Honors College. In that unit, I had the opportunity to work with faculty across disciplines. I gained insight into how my peers in areas outside of history experienced the tenure and promotion system and learned about their review processes. This exposure, combined with my own interest in working and teaching outside my specific field, has prepared me for the work of the Faculty Personnel Committee.
