University Senate seat

In my eleven years as a program assistant at UO, I have been fortunate to interact with a wide range of capable and inspiring people on our campus. In my current role at the UO Women's Center, I have my 'ear to the ground' of what is on the minds of many students, and I continually learn so much from them.

When UO is at its best, we are creating the environment where students can discover their best selves, and in turn feel inspired to welcome others in to explore their own creativity, curiosity and leadership. There are so many actions we can take as classified staff to improve this environment. If I were selected to serve as a Classified Staff representative in the University Senate, I would listen intently to my Classified colleagues, represent their perspectives within the Senate proceedings, and report back to my colleagues so that they are aware of what is being discussed and decided upon.

It would be an honor to help UO be its best.
